Mobile Lingo Selects Exit Games Neutron as Mobile Multiplayer Solution to Power Upcoming Titles

Mobile media publisher Mobile Lingo and multiplayer solution provider Exit Games sign a multi-title deal to power mobile games such as Buncomania and Hip Hop Blackjack. Mobile Lingo's forthcoming connected mobile games will be based on the Exit Games Neutron 3.0 multiplayer solution; the cooperation will provide Mobile Lingo's games with an entirely new set of multiplayer and connected features for enhanced mobile content.

San Francisco - 1 March, 2006

Mobile Lingo and Exit Games announce the beginning of their cooperation to innovate next generation connected gaming. Mobile Lingo is a leading mobile media publisher, developing, distributing and promoting mobile content to its customers. Their current product portfolio includes innovative mobile applications such as HipHoptionary and will be expanded by mobile multiplayer games and connected applications. Powered by Exit Games Neutron 3.0, the leading managed service platform for connected and multiplayer mobile games, Mobile Lingo aims at global cross platform and cross carrier mobile gaming. Mobile Lingo's first Neutron powered multiplayer gaming titles will be available in May.

Mobile Lingo's innovative titles, such as Hip Hop Blackjack or Buncomania provide cross-carrier and cross-platform multiplayer gaming and are designed to incorporate comprehensive game-play, community and communications features. Buddy lists, international competitions, and matchmaking allow gamers from around the world to interact and play on a global scale.

"With Neutron's facility to connect Java and Brew subscribers, users are given the freedom to interact with their social group and community without any technical boundaries," explains Etesh Mangray, CEO of Mobile Lingo LLC. Tom Sperry, CEO of Exit Games USA, added: "The combination of Mobile Lingo's portfolio and publishing power with the advanced gameplay and community features offered by Exit Games Neutron 3.0, leads to the creation of state-of-the-art mobile games that really demonstrate the fun of multiplayer gaming."
